A multi-sport athlete, Sgt. 1st Class Shauna Rohbock was a high school All-American in soccer and attained All-American status in both track and soccer at Brigham Young University. In 1999, she heard the Bobsled Federation would hold tryouts that weekend in nearby Park City, Utah. She knew the next winter Olympics were slated for Utah and couldn't help dreaming about competing at an Olympics in her home state. Though she did not qualify for the 2002 Winter Games, she won a Silver medal at the next Olympic Games. In addition to other recognition, she is a four-time world champion and the coach of a Silver medalist in the 2018 Olympics.

“Every time we are out on that ice, I am proud to say that we represent not just ourselves, but our teammates, our Army, and our country.”
